the roll being called only 38 answered to their names; and as these did not constitute a quorum, the special meeting fell through, and the business of the quarterly meeting was resumed. A quorum for the special purposes mentioned would be over forty members, a clear majority of the Council.

IRISH JOURNALISTS' ASSOCIATION.

At the fortnightly Committee meeting of the Irish Journalists' Association, held in the Minerva Hotel, Rutland square, Mr. W. J.
Ryan, vice-president, occupied the chair.

A number of motions were received in rethe Minerva Hotel on Saturday next at 3 p.m.

These were ordered to be included in the agenda and forwarded to each member.

It was arranged that the Committee should

KINGSTOWN POLICE.

MR. WALL AND THE POLICE.

Before Mr. Wall, K.C., at Kingstown Police Court yesterday, Denis Byrne, of Kelly's Court, was charged with assaulting his sister by hitting her on the head with a lamp. He was further charged with assaulting the police.

Police-constable 123P said that when he went to Kelly's Court to see the prisoner about the assault on his sister he at once rushed at him and tore his tunic. He came at Byrne a second time, and to defend himself he had to knock Byrne down.

Mr. Wall—How did you knock him down?
By striking him on the neck with my fist.

Mr. Wall—That is quite right. Policemen like other animals, are entitled to protect themselves (laughter).

Byrne was sent to jail for one calendar month on each charge.

VISIT OF NEW ISLE OF MAN STEAMER.

The magnificent new passenger steamer Ben-my-chree sails from Douglas this morning, and is due to arrive in Dublin at 12 noon.
This vessel is the largest and fastest Channel turbine steamer afloat. Her length is 381 feet, and beam 66 feet, and she has splendid accommodation for 3,650 passengers, and to ensure absolute freedom from vibration the first class saloons and cabins are placed forward.
The propelling machinery consists of three Parsons steam turbines with 14,000 horsepower, and three propellers capable of independent action; in fact, both in machinery and in the general fitting up of the vessel and her saloons all the latest developments in marine science and art have been utilised to attain the requirements of speed, safety, and the comfort of passengers. The ship makes her return voyage to Douglas at 5.30 p.m.
